

Comic Book/Narrative Art

Create a fictional story of an adventure that an object of yours takes. The object may or may not be returned to you. Your comic strip must have at least 6 pictures. Use your imagination! You may use a comic template like the one below or draw or find your own.

Please email final work to valerie.montana@k12.dc.gov
